Natural Hormone Replacement:
Is it safe and does it help?

There is lots of talk about hormone replacement these days. But how is natural or bio-identical hormone replacement different? Join us at our clinic for a small group workshop on March 19 from noon to 1:00 with licensed naturopathic doctor Koren Barrett to find the answers.

- What is the difference between natural vs. conventional hormone replacement?
- Does it really help with menopause symptoms?
- What about the concerns about heart disease and other risks?

For more information or to pre-register, contact Christine Nguyen at 949-757-0443.

The Susan Samuelli Center for Integrative Medicine hosts regular programs focused on how complementary and traditional western medicine can help you achieve better health through education, evidence-based research and our clinical practice which applies integrative medical therapies.
